GREELY G. MAUZY IN LAST SLEEP

One Time Prominent Business Man
Expires at Home Following Long Illness.

BURIAL WEDNESDAY MORNING

Is Survived by Widow and Two Daughters, Mrs. Harrie Jones and Mrs. Anna Moore.

Greely G. Mauzy, 63 years old, a well-known resident of this city, died last night at 7:30 o'clock at his home in North Harrison street. Mr. Mauzy had been an invalid for nine years and for the past several weeks had been in a serious condition.

At one time Mr. Mauzy was prominent in the business affairs of the city. He was engaged in the dry goods business with his father, William C. Mauzy for several years and when the W. C. Mauzy store and the A. G. Mauzy firm consolidated, into the Mauzy Company, he continued to have an active part in the business. Mr. Mauzy retired from active business several years ago. Mr. Mauzy died on the sixty-third anniversary of his birth, having been born December 8, 1849.

He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Harrie Jones and Mrs. Anna Moore. Mr. Mauzy also leaves four sisters, Mrs. Jesse Darst of Chicago, Mrs. George Thomas of Janesville, Wis., Mrs. Elizabeth Burt of New York City and Mrs. Mary Sinsbaugh of California and one brother, Edward Mauzy of Chicago.

The funeral services will be conducted Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the late residence by the Rev. C. M. Yocum. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery and will be in charge of the Masonic lodge of which deceased was a member. Friends may call any time this evening and Tuesday.

MRS. HARVEY COHEE DEAD

Passed Away Following an Operation
For Tumor.

Mrs. Ida May Cohee, 39 years old, wife of Harvey Cohee, died this morning at five o'clock at the Sexton sanitarium following an operation last Tuesday for tumor. Besides her husband she is survived by her father, James R. Levi and three brothers, Charles, Frank and Harry Levi and two sisters, Miss Bessie Levi and Mrs. Jennie Jones. The funeral services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, 1020 West Market street, by the Rev. A. W. Jamieson. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

HAD HEAVY MAIL.

The rural mail carrier on rural route number 25 out of Mays had a busy time last month. His report shows that he delivered 7,928 pieces which weighed 1,228 pounds. He collected during the month 649 pieces which weighed 178 pounds.

TAKEN TO HOME.

Anderson Herald: Four children of Mrs. C. B. Mayo, of South Meridian street, have been admitted to the Soldiers' Orphans Home at Knightstown and will be taken to that institution Monday. Mrs. Mayo is a widow and was unable to support her children.

ATTENDANCE IS BETTER

Increased 90 Per Cent. in Rural Schools, Says Miller.

The attendance in the country schools is ninety per cent better this year than it was last, according to an assertion made by James Miller, county truant officer, while filing his weekly report with C. M. George, county superintendent, this morning. Mr. Miller added however, that the attendance in the city schools, as well as in Carthage, had been less this year due to contagious disease. It is a well known fact that children have been affected by contagion this year more than in many recent years.

ONE CHILD DIES; MAY LOSE ANOTHER

Measles, Whooping Cough and Pneumonia in Ottis Crawford Family Causes Pitiable Plight.

BURIAL AT MORRISTOWN

Carl Crawford, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Crawford, died yesterday morning at their home in West Third street after an illness from pneumonia, contracted from measles and whooping cough. One other child in the family is dangerously ill with measles and whooping cough and is not expected to live. The entire family of seven children had the whooping cough and with one death. Mr. and Mrs. Crawford will probably lose another child. Mr. Crawford is a motorman on the I. & C. traction line and formerly lived in Morristown.

Carl had been ill with pneumonia but a few days but his condition was such that death was expected. The remains will be taken to Morristown tomorrow where burial will take place.

CASE TWO YEARS OLD IN COURT

Suit of Greeley et al vs. Hooten For $1800 Finally Comes to Trial

CONTINUED THREE TIMES

The celebrated case of the State of Indiana on the relation of Albert Greeley and others against Alonzo T. and Raymond Hooten—celebrated because of its age—held the attention of the jury in the circuit court today. The suit came here on a change of venue from Hancock county February 6, 1911, almost two years ago. A continuance was granted in the February term of court in 1911 and in the February term of last year. It was set for trial November 22, this term, but was continued until today when it finally came to trial.

The case is one on a bond for $1,800, the defendants having failed, it is alleged, to pay for crushed stone they used in building a road in Hancock county. Sparks & Gary and Attorney Binford of Greendale represent the defendants and John Megee, John H. Kiplinger and L. L. Broadus of Connersville are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Total $33.10
The Republican Santa fund contributions took a decided bound today, much to the satisfaction of the friends of the fund. The nice large sum of eleven dollars—two five dollar bills and a one dollar bill, together with sixty cents donated by the two children Saturday, brought the total up to over thirty-three dollars.

Although it was started earlier this year, the fund is just now about equal last year's at this time, and, to keep even with last year, it will be necessary for the contributions to come thick and fast.

The buying will likely be started this week. Although the fund is not what it should be by a hundred dollars or more, in order to supply all the poor little children with suitable Christmas gifts, it is believed that the good people of Rushville will come to the rescue and make it what it should be.

The chief interest in connection with the fund today is the Palace theater benefit for tonight. An excellent program, one that was especially interest children, has been announced. The first show will start at 6:45 o'clock so as to accommodate all of the people who have bought tickets.

Several boys and girls are working industriously to win the football and doll offered the boy and girl selling the most tickets. Children may sell tickets for the show up until eight o'clock.

The penny boxes will be put on prominent corners tonight. Heretofore the penny boxes have been a great source of revenue for the fund.

DEWARD MATLOCK EXPIRED

Died Last Night at Home of Jude
Levi.

Deward B. Matlock, 36 years old, died last night at 10:20 o'clock at the residence of Jude Levi in West Water street after a brief illness from diabetes. Mr. Matlock was the son of Hampton Matlock of Howard county and had been a resident of this city all his life. Besides his father he is survived by a half brother, Daniel Matlock. The funeral services will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Levi residence and burial will take place in the Matlock cemetery on the S. B. Anderson farm south of the city.

FINGERS MASHED.

While on the way to Rushville today, Simp. McKee, trustee of Orange township, Fayette county, stopped to repair his automobile and caught his hand in the fan. His thumb and four fingers were badly lacerated. He came on to Dr. Paxton's office here and the wounds were dressed.

COLD WAVE IS AN AID TO MERCHANT

With Drop in Temperature Comes Feeling That Holidays Must be Near at Hand.

CHRISTMAS CHEER IN THE AIR

Early Shoppers Are Getting Choice of Stock—What is in Store For Children.

Christmas trade started off with a rush Saturday and local merchants are elated over the prospects of a very lucrative holiday business. They had little hope for a thriving business unless the weather conditions were more favorable, but since the cold wave has been waited in from the northwest and the temperature has fallen lower than any time yet this winter, Christmas cheer seems to permeate the air and people have caught it and are anxious to do their holiday shopping early.

In times past the Christmas buyer was the most lagardly of persons. He invariably put off his shopping until the last minute. The result always was that the last two or three days before Christmas—especially the last one—was a veritable inferno for the store clerk. But now, thanks to the campaign of education that has been carried on from many sources, a different idea prevails.

The Christmas shopper has learned that if he wants to get the best, if he wants a choice of the Christmas stock, he must buy early. He no longer puts it off from one day to the next. This year promises to be no exception.

The merchants of Rushville have their Christmas stock in gladstone array to attract the eye of the Christmas shopper. There are many beautiful show windows which have been prepared for the holiday season. Some of the stores are open at night now, but there are still a few which will not be open to Christmas shoppers before next week.

As Christmas is primarily a holiday for the children, a survey of the toys on display here is fraught with more than passing interest. One sees fearful and fuzzy looking creatures with wooly hides which, when squeezed, emit sounds like mutterings the growlings of the denizens of the jungle, screams of birds and war whoops of wild Indians.

Most of the beasts would defy classification, but they have jolly fat bodies and bulging eyes and brilliant-hued colorings. One need not be surprised to see a vermillion bear, a violet purple dog, an emerald cat, a pink pig, a violet elephant, a bright pumpkin, yellow alligator, or a pale blue leopard or tiger.

All are in cheery colors and some of them have expressions of blandness, some look fierce with grinning mouth, showing Rooseveltian expanses of teeth, others look hilariously funny. Many of these toys are washable and the paint will not come off. The prices of some are quite high. Others are very cheap.

The Juneau babies are wonderful dolls and so are the Schoenhut wood babies. These miniature people come in all ages and conditions of life, the grandmother with cap and tiny spectacles, the mother, the young dandy and debutante and the infant in long clothes. There are trunks with hat trays, carriages and houses complete with furnishings, or the furniture may be bought separately.

MASONIC MEETING.

Phoenix Lodge No. 62 F. & A. M. will hold their annual election Tuesday night and make arrangements for the funeral of G. G. Mauzy.

IS WALKING ON CRUTCHES

Rev. W. H. Clark, Formerly of Rushville, Steps on Nail.

Rev. W. H. Clark, who stepped upon a rusty nail a few days ago, continues about the same, says the Connersville News. The nail protruded from a section of a board and inflicted a wound which is causing him a great amount of pain. It was properly dressed at once, but is very sore and somewhat swollen. He was able to walk about his home yesterday with the aid of crutches. The injured member, while it is exceedingly painful is thought to be nothing of a very serious nature unless some other trouble arises.

WOMEN HOLD SWAY AT THIS INSTITUTE

It's 23 to 2 When Teachers of Posey,
Rushville and Noble Townships
Meet.

ONE MAN ABSENT SATURDAY

Women held sway at the meeting of the teachers institute of the teachers of Posey, Rushville and Noble townships in the office of the county superintendent, C. M. George, Saturday. Of the twenty-five teachers in three townships, only two of them are men. They have always been compelled, when the institute met, to uphold the right of manhood against such an overwhelming majority of women.

But Saturday it was more terrible than ever because one of the men was not present. Prof. A. C. Senior, principal of the New Salem schools, was alone in championing the cause of men. Prof. J. L. Shauck, principal of the Arlington schools, the other man, was unable to be present because he was compelled to go to Chicago to meet his daughter, Mrs. Nora Brown and children of Spokane, Wash., who came for a visit with him.

It is interesting to note in this connection that this is the first meeting of his division institute that Prof. Shauck has ever missed—and he has been teaching school in Rush county for many years.

HOME FOR A VISIT.

Ralph Kenner, a Spanish-American war veteran of Rushville, who is now an inmate of the soldiers' home at Marion spent the week end with old friends here, will return home tonight. He is an orderly in the home and has charge of two wards.

FAMILIAR SIZZLE OF STEAM RADIATOR WAS AWAITED IN COURT HOUSE TODAY

Shiveringly Despondent, County Officials Keep Warm on Hinted

THEIR HOPE IS EVERLASTING

"Ziz-ziz-ziz-ziz-ziz."

Expectantly—aye, nervously, almost fanatically—was that familiar sound awaited in the court house today. It would bring happiness—stronger than that, joy—to the heart of most any regular occupant of the county hall of justice.

Most of the county officials had their ears to the floor today. That portion of the floor where they gen-

Everything Except Live Stock
Will Be Mailable.

Beginning next January first, farm produce of all kinds, vegetables, fruits, poultry, meat, hardware, groceries and almost everything else, except live stock, within certain limitations provided by the parcels post law, will be as mailable as letters.

Within less than a month the government will practically establish a great national parcels express company. Many, no doubt, have not even taken notice of the fact that the United States parcels post will open for business January 1st.

No one can see far enough ahead to predict to just what extent the parcels post is going to effect our national life—to say nothing of the home life, but it is apparent that within the next year the widespread importance of the postoffice appropriation act of August 24 will be more fully understood than it is today.

It brings to this country the day when, for example, the students at college may mail their soiled linen home and get a fresh bundle from mother, or farmer Jones may mail a dozen eggs to banker Smith in the town or city.

It would seem that the members of the congress who enacted the law providing for a nation-wide parcels post system did not fully realize the stupendousness of the task at hand. For the organization of new government work, small in comparison with that of making every one of sixty thousand postoffices a parcels office, the government generally takes a year or two. In matters of far less importance Washington generally has a profound commission at work for several years. But in this instance congress virtually called in Postmaster-General Hitchcock and gave him notice to have a parcels post system ready in four months, to serve not only all the people in this country, but those in Alaska, Hawaii, American Samoa, Porto Rico, Panama and even to reach the people over in the Philippine islands.

And it is to be just as stupendous a task for every postmaster and every postal employe in the United States. The force at the local post-

SAW SEVENTEEN PASS
AS HE WAITED

Free After Two Years Maurice
Lustig Describes Sing
Sing's Horrors.

FOR three weeks less than two years Maurice M. Lustig stood in the shadow of death, with nothing but reminders of death round and about him. The sun was not shining for him. The stars were twinkling for others. No sun or sky or earth did he see in those years of gloom in the death house at Sing Sing. His identity in the world was gone. He was known only as a number. He was forgotten by all but his family and the friends who stuck by him.

Seventeen men who had been his neighbors in adjoining cells in that time had gone by his narrow steel dwelling and had passed through the little green door. Seventeen men had been slipped into eternity. The little green door of the death house at Sing Sing opens on the road from which there is no turning back. It is the threshold of the electric chair.

Men had gone by Lustig with their heads bowed in prayer. Men had walked with heads erect to meet their Redeemer. Men had gone that way cursing the God who brought them into the world. Men had been dragged groveling, shrieking, howling with fear, begging for mercy, down the short walk from the death house to death itself.

Awful Meaning of "Go Away."

When the condemned man starts down that walk they call it "going away." They never mention the chair in the death house. They never mention death. They are breathing its atmosphere all the time. Every man keeps count on the days. He knows when he is "going away." Lustig saw them all go. Some had been in the death house before he arrived there; others who followed him he saw "going away." Once his day had been set for "going away," but the day passed. He says he knew he was never going through the little green door because he had faith in himself, in his lawyers, Alexander Mayer and Benjamin Reass, and in the higher courts.

And a day came when the court of appeals handed down its decisions in the cases of eleven men who were under the death sentence for murder. Two the chair awaited in Dannemora. One in Auburn and eight in Sing Sing. Of all these only Maurice Lustig was granted a new trial. On seven of the eight in Sing Sing the little green door opened and closed for the first and last time. Today Maurice Lustig walks the streets of New York a free man.

Lustig was convicted of the murder of his wife. The principal witness against him was Mrs. Maud Livingston. It was shown on the stand that she was the author of three anonymous letters addressed to Coroner Dooley.

Anonymous Letter Caused Inquest.

The first of these letters was received the day Mrs. Lustig was to be buried. Coroner Dooley hastened to the house and stopped the funeral until an inquest could be held. He had several detectives and policemen with him. At the conclusion of the inquest the coroner and the police went away, and the funeral was proceeded with.

Three months later on the receipt of more anonymous letters Lustig was ordered arrested. The woman kept a drug store and swore that she had seen Lustig take a bottle of strychnine from a shelf in the store. She never said anything about this, she stated on the stand, never mentioned it to the coroner, nor did she go to the police court to appear against the prisoner. It was mainly on her evidence that Lustig was convicted. It was the review of her evidence that granted a new trial to the condemned man and set him free.

"Oh, it's great to breathe God's sunshine again," said Lustig. "It's great to be out in the world once more, to see people, to have them bump into you, to hear them talk and laugh and, yes, swear. It's a wonderful thing to know you have friends who will stick by you to the limit, who will do things for you without hope of reward, do them just for you."

"I've had them. I've got them, I never believed that I was going to the chair. My lawyers didn't. I never can forget Solomon Badesch, who was not in the case, but who had been my attorney on former occasions. He it was who dug up the evidence against Mrs. Livingston—who found out she was living under an assumed name. He photographed her former apartments. He got her history. He was mainly instrumental in saving me from the chair."

The Chill of Death.

"When I entered the death house there were sixteen men ahead of me. I made the seventeenth. I filled the cells in the house. I did not leave hope behind, for we had then the newly discovered evidence. I knew that I would never go through the little green door. But that did not make the surroundings the less gloomy. It did not lift the chill from the vaults. It did not remove the ever presence of death. It was uncanny. It was awful when they began taking the condemned men out to the chair.

"The first two to 'go away' were Carl and Struggled.

Lutz and Joseph Cordes. The former was a German who had shot a man. The second was an Italian who had mistreated and then killed his daughter. Lutz had a son who was a Lutheran minister. He was resigned to death. Cordes took on fearfully. The shades of all the cells were lowered so that we could not see the men's faces, but we could hear Cordes. No one of us slept the night before. All night long we sang hymns and read chapters from the Bible. We read in turn and sang together. We sang whatever the condemned man requested.

"Many of those scenes I was destined to go through, and I became accustomed to them—yes, hardened. But the one scene to which I never could become calloused was the last parting of the relatives with the man who was 'going away.' This was on the Sunday previous to the day he was to pass through the little green door. The shades were mercifully lowered in front of our cells, and we were spared the sight of the scenes which were taking place, but we could not shut out the cries and the screams that rang through the death house. Oh, it was awful!

"It seems to me that I will never be able to forget the depths of despair sounded by those agonized cries. Fathers and mothers, sisters, brothers, wives and sweethearts went by us, weeping and in hysterics. They were carried out fainting. They were dragged out raving like maniacs. There was an awful stillness in the death house just before those scenes and long after the cries had ceased to echo through the corridor.

Becker and the Gun Men.

"The papers stated that no signs of recognition were betrayed by Becker or the four gun men when the latter were taken in there. You can rest assured that they have spoken since. The death house has no inequality of rank. They are all on an even plane there. I understand that Becker occupies my old cell. If he does he is just two cells removed from the little green door. They all talk. They can read and write in their cells, and they can smoke. They receive visitors, but they talk with them four feet removed from their cells. A wire screen separates prisoner and visitor four feet out from the cells.

"Your wife, mother, sister or sweetheart may converse with you. She cannot embrace you, she cannot kiss you. She cannot touch you. You surely have left the world behind you when you enter the death house at Sing Sing.

"The men play checkers. Each has a checkerboard with the squares numbered. They make their own checkers of bits of pasteboard or paper. From their cells they call the number of the square from which and to which they move and call the jumps. Some great games are played there.

Everything Is Forgiven Then.

"The men fight. They cannot reach each other, but they can call names and curse each other. Then on the night before a man 'goes away' every man who has had trouble asks his forgiveness and is forgiven, no matter what the offense. Then all join in prayer and song.

"The last man who 'went away' before I left was young Albert Wolter, convicted of murdering Ruth Miller. You will remember the case. Most of the girl's body was found in a sack on the roof of the house where Wolter lived. The sack was thrown down into the yard, and there the bones were discovered. More bones were found in Wolter's fireplace in his room. A hand was found clutching hair which matched the color of his.

"I believe that Wolter was innocent of the murder. I heard him swear on his knees before his father and mother when they visited him for the last time that he had no hand in the murder. I shook hands with him when he passed my cell. He said: 'Good luck to you, old man. Goodbye.' I said, 'God bless you.' I couldn't say any more.

"Joseph Caralla, convicted of the fiendish murder of a man, was the worst specimen of manhood in the death house in the two years I was there. He was blasphemous beyond belief. The day before the last he cursed his Maker, he blasphemed Christ. He threw the crucifix on the floor and stamped on it. He tore up the holy pictures which had been given him and spat on them.

Dragged In Through the Door.

"That night the last night, we prayed with him and sang with him as with the rest. He went away, cursing and fighting, and had to be finally dragged through the door. And I heard that just before he was placed in the chair he begged for a few moments in which to make his peace with God. He fell upon his knees and prayed.

"Only once did we sing for a man on the day he was 'going away.' He asked us the night before to sing as he went out 'In the Arms of Jesus.' We sang it, but with indifferent success. Too many were thinking of the day to come, all too soon, when the little green door would open for them. It was the first time in the history of the death house there had been any singing on the morning of a man 'going away.' They 'went away' from the death house usually between 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning. This man's name was Charles Swinton. He lost his nerve on the last night, and I think his mind was unbalanced. At the last I don't believe he knew what was happening to him.

"Lawrence Spohr was a musician in the army. He shot a man. At times he gave us a concert on a harmonicon, and he could make that mouth organ talk. It was wonderful, the music he made. He could play anything from ragtime to the classics. He could have the harmonicon whenever he called for it. When he stopped playing he had to hand it over to the keeper. Spohr succeeded in getting another trial after I left and is now in the Tombs.

Warden Kennedy Was Human.

"Music we had in plenty, thanks to the good heart of Warden Kennedy. The warden was loved by every man who ever went into the death house. He was human. Before his coming our privileges were few enough. He made for us the best that could be made of such a situation. He had the organ and the prison quartet and the violinist brought in to play and sing for us. He gave us Bibles and magazines and saw to it that we got the daily papers, all the morning papers except the Sunday papers. He furnished smoking tobacco and cigarette papers. He brought us fruit and nuts. He was a prince.

"So was James Connaughton, the principal keeper—'P. K.' we called him in terms of endearment. He did all that he could for us. The warden's orders were that we were to have the best that could be given in the circumstances. We got it from 'P. K.'

"Father Cashin, the prison chaplain, was one bright ray of sunshine that came into the death house. He is a Catholic priest and in every way worthy of his cloth. He is a man and a gentleman. He spoke with all the boys, gave them consolation, talked with them by the hour, gave them Bibles and papers and tobacco. He was God's own messenger.

"His predecessor, who called himself the Rev. Jones, was as different as day from night. The boys got no consolation nor sympathy from Mr. Jones. He said to one of them, 'Well, if you'd behaved yourself on the outside you never would have been in here.' He didn't have to tell that to the man. The man knew it.

"Another man among men is Warden Ed Hanley at the Tombs. He is a fine fellow and every inch a man.

Lowry the Friend of the Condemned

"There are good men who go to the death house and talk with the boys and do something to ameliorate their condition. One of these is John Lowry of 156 Fifth avenue. He takes the greatest interest in the unfortunate. He visits many of the prisons and reformatories and is constantly doing good. He gives away books and papers. He helps a man after leaving prison. He spends his own money and asks no return for it except the reform of the man for whom he is working. It is a pity that there are not many more like him, but there are a few.

"There are men in prison who are better than many who walk the streets free men. I don't say this is universal, but there are many who have gone there because they had no money to hire good lawyers to fight their cases in the courts. This is the kind of men Lowry and his kind aim to help. I think I shall engage in that kind of work when I can get my head above water—when I have the means to do it.

"A man never looks on the sunshine once the door closes behind him in the death house. He is never taken out of his cell except for ten minutes each Saturday, when he has his bath. The bathtub is a rotten old tub with twenty years of rust on it. When you get shaved you put your head outside. The rest of your body remains in the cell. They use a safety, and it is a pretty rough affair. The food is served on two battered tin plates. You get a spoon for your coffee. Your meat you eat with your fingers. The food is good, but the cooking is rotten. A man in prison needs all the help he can get, and I am going to do my little best for the rest of my life to help them all."—New York Evening World.

NO CHRISTMAS TREE FAMINE.

United States Quarantine Affects Small Area of Production.

The Christmas tree ban of the department of agriculture, which affected only the movement of Christmas trees across the quarantine lines of the gypsy and brown tailed moth infested districts of New England, stirred up a hornet's nest.

To offset what the department regards as a general misinterpretation the federal horticultural board has issued notice that no restrictions whatever are placed on the movement of Christmas trees or greens cut outside the known gypsy moth infested territory, comparatively limited in area in New England, and that the quarantine order would interfere very little, if at all, with this business, as most of the cutting of Christmas trees and greens is done beyond the limits of the quarantined area.

While Christmas trees and greens cut within the infested area may not go into interstate traffic because of the impossibility of so inspecting the trees as to prevent their carrying possible infestation with gypsy moth eggs, this restriction does not prevent the local movement of such trees within the quarantined district.

one tagged "Bull Moose special," left the Grand Central station. Colonel Roosevelt, Oscar Straus and Frank A. Munsey were in the same Pullman. A dozen women were in the company of 200.

The colonel repelled the inquisitive at the trainhead gate with "Not a word, not a word."

But conversation with other leaders of the pilgrimage made it plain that whatever action the Republican party may take to get on a fighting front for 1916, the Progressives are going right ahead with their own program. It was evident that nothing short of complete surrender and acceptance of their political faith will be tolerated by the Progressives, and that no friendly overtures may be expected from them.

George W. Perkins went to Chicago on Saturday to arrange things. Miss Mary Dreier, who was a delegate to the national Progressive convention, and Miss Alice Carpenter are already in Chicago, conferring with Miss Jane Addams over the part women are to play in the proceedings. Jane Addams will preside over one of the sessions.

Insanity Plea Rejected.

Indianapolis, Dec. 9.—The insanity plea of Samuel H. Fisher, who shot and killed Mrs. Grace Snow July 5, during a fit of jealousy, was not believed by the jury in criminal court, which agreed on a verdict of murder in the second degree. The penalty is life imprisonment.

OBITUARY.

Boone Gilson, born July 26, 1834, departed this life December 3, 1912, age 78 years, he being the youngest son of David and Margaret Boone Gilson, deceased. On September the ninth, 1866 he was united in marriage to Nancy T. Powell, to this union ten children were born, three dying in infancy, those living are Fannie G. Downey, Alma G. Shubinski, Harriet G. Hower, Lola G. Crunk, Dora E. Gilson, Herbert T. Gilson and Chase B. Gilson, all present except the son Herbert, who being located in Spokane, Wash., he and his family being unable to be present at this time. Mr. Gilson is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Margaret Leisure, who is also present. Mr. Gilson was born and raised on the same quarter section on which he died, this being a remarkable fact that demonstrates his love and devotion of 78 years to the one and only spot. These almost four score years now claim, with a few exceptions, the oldest pioneer of Jackson township, whose primitive days were associated with the oxen and the log cabin to which conditions we recognize as the builder of such a long life.

CHARLES S. MELLEN

President of New Haven Railroad Invites Inquiry.

MELLEN ASKS TO BE CALLED AS WITNESS

Assumes Full Responsibility for His Road.

New York, Dec. 9.—Charles S. Mellen, president of the New Haven road, sent the following letter dated New York city, Dec. 6, to United States District Attorney Wise concerning the federal grand jury investigation of the relations of the Grand Trunk and the New Haven:

"Sir—I understand that a federal grand jury sitting within your district is investigating the relations between the Grand Trunk railway of Canada and the New York, New Haven & Hartford road.

"As all negotiations between these two companies have been conducted on the part of the New Haven railroad by myself, and as I am the only person connected with the New Haven who had anything to do with these negotiations, or was present while they were going on, and am therefore the only one connected with the New Haven road who has personal knowledge of the facts, I desire to be allowed to testify regarding this matter before this grand jury.

"I wish it distinctly understood that I waive all claim that I might have to immunity from criminal proceedings on account of my testifying concerning this matter before the grand jury. I have to ask of you that my request as embodied in this letter be laid before the grand jury for its action thereon."

SHOT TOO SOON

Killed Friend Thinking He Was a Burglar and Died of Broken Heart.

San Francisco, Dec. 9.—Walter S. Cocks, a retired business man of fifty-five, is dead of a broken heart following the accidental killing of his friend, James J. Hyland, Nov. 14. On that date Cocks was awakened by someone breaking a window of his house, and, seizing a revolver, went to investigate. Encountering a man he supposed was a burglar, he fired, killing Hyland. Cocks, when he looked at the body, found that he had killed his life-long friend. Hyland, who lived next door, had mistaken the house for his own.

Cocks never recovered from the shock, although no blame was attached to him.

Mormons in Bad Odor.

London, Dec. 9.—The Mormon missionaries have of late been very active in Ipswich and vicinity. This has aroused considerable feeling against them and ended in disorder last night when one of their meetings was broken up by a mob. The missionaries were forced to ask police protection from bodily injury.

Electric Companies Merge.

Indianapolis, Dec. 9.—The Kokomo, Marion & Western Traction company and the Kokomo Public Utility company have been merged into one corporation to be known as the Indiana Railways and Lighting company and capitalized at $3,000,000. The articles of incorporation have just been filed with the secretary of state.

Dr. Wiley's Successor.

Washington, Dec. 9.—President Taft and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson have decided upon the appointment of Dr. Alsberg, a chemist in the bureau of drugs and plants, as chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, a position that has been vacant since the resignation last spring of Dr. Wiley.

A Show of Force.

Paris, Dec. 9.—It is said here that the action of Germany and Italy and Austria-Hungary in renewing the triple alliance five months ahead of the time of its expiration, was to show the solidarity of these three countries on the eve of the London peace conference.

AFTER SICKNESS

How to Recover Strength

So many people are asking how to recover their strength after severe sickness that we are publishing this information for their benefit.

After gripe, pleurisy, pneumonia or any illness what you need is new strength and better blood.

The most certain way to get this is by taking Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation (without oil.) It creates strength, improves the blood, sharpens the appetite and restores the entire system to a healthy robust condition.

Mrs. Alice Mill of Newton, N. C., says: "I had a very severe attack of gripe which confined me to my bed for several weeks. After I was able to sit up, I felt weak, tired and worn out for a long time. A friend advised me to try Vinol and before I had taken one bottle I was entirely relieved of that tired, worn out feeling which usually follows gripe and I had regained my strength and felt well again."

Try a bottle of Vinol. Your money will be returned if it does not restore your vitality and strength. F. B. Johnson and Company, druggists, Rushville, Indiana.

P. S. If you have Eczema try our Sazo Salve. We guarantee it.

and is continually increasing is because we are giving our customers true value for their money. This is the one policy that is bound to build up a business and the only one that never fails. When you see our line of storm buggies and compare the quality of them with other makes on the market you will see that our buggies are far ahead of the rest in style, quality and finish and the large business we have built up by giving honest values, enables us to buy buggies in large quantities and by doing this we can buy at a price that puts us in a position to sell you buggies at a price that our competitors are unable to meet with the same class of goods. Don't buy a Storm Buggy until you have examined our line of buggies. We have the buggy you want at the price you want to pay, and if you don't get it, it won't be our fault.

Outraged Bull Moose.

The Bull Moosers, when they come together in Chicago tomorrow for their conference, will have to face a charge of platform tinkering that is without record in the history of politics. Bull Moosers, who are sincerely in earnest about the reforms their party advocated, are outraged because of the change in the platform, adopted by the national convention, which resulted in the pulling of the vitalizing clause of the trust plank and making it very favorable to Big Business.

Why was this vitalizing clause under the head of "Business" "killed," and why was there read into the printed platform this declaration which the party had never made?

The vitalizing clause which the convention adopted without a dissenting voice was:

"We favor strengthening the Sherman law by prohibiting agreements to divide territory or limit output; refusing to sell to customers who buy from business rivals; to sell below cost in certain areas while maintaining higher prices in other places; using the power of transportation to aid or injure special business concerns; and other unfair trade practices."

This was the final "clause" in the trust plank entitled "Business." It was the one declaration that put "teeth" in the trust plank. It was aimed to prohibit the trust evil practices. This was adopted by the convention and was "killed out" of the platform by some one that same night.

The plank inserted in the platform that same night, and which was never heard of by the convention, or adopted by it, reads:

"It is imperative to the welfare of our people that we enlarge and extend our foreign commerce. We are pre-eminently fitted to do this, because as a people we have developed high skill in the art of manufacturing; our business men are strong organizers. In every way possible our federal governments should co-operate in this important matter. Anyone who has had opportunity to study and observe first hand Germany's course in this respect must realize that their policy of co-operation between government and business has in comparatively few years made them a leading competitor for the commerce of the world. It should be remembered that they are doing this on a national scale and with large units of business, while the Democrats would have us believe that we should do it with small units of business, which would be controlled, not by the national government, but by forty-nine conflicting sovereignties. Such a policy is utterly out of keeping with the progress of the times, and gives our great commercial rivals in Europe—hungry for international markets—golden opportunities, of which they are rapidly taking advantage."

A comparison of the clause that was "killed," and this one which was "inserted" in the platform after that platform was adopted without it, brings out the fact that they are, in spirit, diametrically opposed. The "killed" clause was the vitalizing declaration of a plank aimed to prohibit combination of corporations in an unlawful way. It could not have been written by a disciple of Big Business. The "inserted" clause—which, by the way, was inserted under the platform plank headed "commercial development"—is the strongest possible Wall street and Big Business argument for greater industrial unification.

Something of the story of the mystery has already got out—enough to reveal the hand, though not the brain, maybe that killed the clause that had teeth in it. The hand was O. K. Davis's. Davis, during the Roosevelt fight for the Republican nomination, was the chief publicity man of the Roosevelt campaign. After the June convention, Davis, following Roosevelt out of the party, became not only the chief publicity man for the new party, but he was looked on as being as deep in the inside workings as Roosevelt, Dixon or Perkins. The clew which may give the Progressives, when they meet tomorrow, a "lead" in unraveling the mystery, was only recently discovered. It was found that O. K. Davis had gone to the Chicago Associated Press office the night of the convention, and, as press agent, "man on the inside" and secretary of the national convention, had requested that changes be made in the platform that had been published in Chicago and sent out over the country. The press association people were loath to make changes, but Davis, in his official capacity, was impressive and he insisted that the Sherman law plank was a "mistake." Even then the Associated Press guarded itself in his statement to editors. Davis thus also inserted the "clause" commending the German system, on which the convention had never passed.

Sam Sanderson Says:

That the inauguration parade may be put over until April, but the daily procession of office-seekers following the president-elect will be an imposing sight.

Davis has admitted that this is true. He says the Sherman law clause had been offered to the resolutions committee by the subcommittee. Davis says the resolutions committee, as a whole, did not accept it. He declares that the resolutions committee did adopt the German cartel system "clause."

He then declares that, in gathering up the planks and clauses of the platform, the Sherman law "clause," by mistake, was taken up and read to the convention and adopted by it—"by mistake"—and that the German cartel "clause," which had been adopted by the committee, was overlooked and not read to the convention. He only "corrected" the convention!

Editorial Notes

They say that the candy kitchen men have about decided that it's useless to charge their fountains when they have city water that looks like skimmed milk and fizzes like regular soda water.

Aspirants for the postoffice have been trying to figure out who put the "Ges" in Ges Hunt. He seems to "have the punch," as it were.

You never can appreciate the other fellow's position until you are there yourself, so don't be so free to criticize him.

The monkeys in the zoo at Richmond, Ind., have become habitual toppers and demand "three fingers" of whiskey every other day during the winter months. It has not been determined where this particular family of monkeys originated, but it still remains a pungent fact that whiskey will make a monkey out of anyone. It's doing it every day.

After five months of married life with a man seventy-six years old, a woman of seventy years has brought suit for divorce. No comment needed.

Those rural editors who are printing items telling about someone's barn being painted, without appending the signatures of the writers thereof, might as well get ready to go down to Washington and answer for violation of publicity law.

It is surmised that the reason why the President-elect is hesitating over his cabinet, is that a number of citizens have failed to write giving him advice.

President Taft is running his message on the serial plan, but if he does not leave off in a real exciting place, the people won't buy the next number.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

GOSSIP AND THE FURIES.

(Anderson Herald.)

There is something pathetic, and a bit of the heroic, in the determination of the Logansport woman, newly-married, to confess to the murder of a neighbor, go to prison, and sacrifice her dream of happiness without a struggle.

Speaking of the angry impulse that led to the crime, Mrs. Lange declared that Mrs. Copple had told other women about the defendant's past life, and this angered her because she was trying to do right. "The road back is thorny enough without others making it worse," Mrs. Lange said, "I'd like to tell every one that no woman gets so bad that she doesn't long to be good. If people knew what harm gossip caused they would hold their tongues. Sometimes persons get so mad that they decide to stop a gossip's tongue in the wrong way, the way I did, but that always makes matters worse."

The case brings vividly to mind the ancient Furies, who were ready to pounce upon and destroy the fallen of their own kind. We are not inclined to be as charitable as we should towards the erring, especially towards the woman who has made mistakes.

How much pleasure we get in airing the erring past of our acquaintances, when we know something derogatory to their reputation. It is a temptation that often proves too much. It gives us a sort of sense of self-righteousness to parade the shortcomings of others.

To forget an unfortunate past and begin life anew is a hard task at the best. And to be constantly reminded of that which one would forget, to undergo the scorn of those who know of our past is an almost unsurmountable obstacle.

It is little wonder that this poor woman under the circumstances should have been angered to desperation. She is deserving of sympathy, and her words on gossip are worth taking to heart. It is pitiful too that the tragedy robs two children of their mother and that these children were clinging to Mrs. Copple's skirts when she was shot down.

Suit Reveals Beer Shipment After License Expired at Knightstown.

Daniel W. Tapscott, representative of the Pabst Brewing Company has brought suit against the estate of the late Alex McCarty formerly engaged in the saloon business in Knightstown, says the Newcastle Times. The amount due is $369.57 for 202 cases and 90 barrels of beer shipped and delivered to the deceased. Records in the office of the county auditor show that the last license for selling intoxicating liquors in Knightstown expired in 1907, whereas the account alleged to be due is for beer shipped to McCarty in June of 1908.

COMING INTO HIS OWN.

The annual report of the Secretary of Agriculture just made public contains the following significant statements:

The most effective move toward the reducing of the high cost of living is the production of greater crops.

This has been the most productive of all agricultural years in the country.

Based on the census of wealth production on farms, the grand total for 1912 is estimated at $9,532,000,000—more twice the amount of wealth produced on farms in 1899.

During the past sixteen years the wealth production on farms, according to census items, has reached the grand total of more than $105,000,000,000.

SIZZLE OF RADIATOR WAS EXPECTED TODAY

shivering officials hobbled into their offices, signs of despair and absolute resignation to the rules of the universe were apparent.

The court house has been without heat so far this winter. The offices have been "heated" with coal oil stoves. Imagine a coal oil stove heating steen thousand cubic feet of cold air! Most of the county offices flee to the back office for the consolation, when officials seem to be on the verge of freezing, they always flee to the back office for the consolation of a crackling coal fire.

The new boilers for the heating plant arrived some weeks ago.

"Twon't take long to get 'em in," promised the contractor. And last week, mind you, heat was promised by today.

So naturally enough, when one of the county officials entered the court house this morning and found it as cold as a barn, he felt dejected—shiveringly dejected. Later he happened to spy the engineer for the heating plant, and he gently reminded the engineer, in as kindly a tone as was possible under similar conditions, that he was somewhat of a prevaricator, a falsified, as it were.

Scarcely deigning to heed the almost impertinent observation of the officials, he too, came back with a reminder—that Monday did not pass away until late this evening.

So you may understand why county officials were expectant. They had a perfect right to be. The engineer hinted that Monday did not pass until late in the evening. Their hopes were revived at this.

But, who knows? They may be waiting yet.

The Ercie will have a complete change of program tonight showing the usual two pictures. “Back to Her Own” is the title of the first and “The Widow’s Claim” is the subject of the other. The usual vaudeville act will be shown.

The Princess will show a Kalem drama, “The Poachers Pardon” for the first picture tonight. It is said to be a beautiful picture and was taken in England. It is the first picture ever taken in England by an American company. The other is a Pathe comedy “At the Burglar’s Command.” A Biograph “So Near and Yet So Far” will be featured tomorrow night.

The Palace benefit show for the Daily Republican Santa Claus fund will have two excellent reels of pictures for tonight. “The White Saviour” is the story of a little girl which will interest little folks mightily. It deals with the activities of a little orphan who, by her kindness and childlike arguments brings two people who have been estranged together. It is a Bison film. The other picture, an Eclair comedy, is entitled “Wanted, a Wife in a Hurry.”

A war play is always sure to be of interest to the public and patrons of English’s Opera house are to have an opportunity of witnessing one of the most successful plays of that type produced in many years when “The Littlest Rebel” with Wm. Farnum in the leading role comes to Indianapolis for the entire week of December 9th. The great success of this piece is attributed to the fact that although it deals with incidents in connection with the civil war there is no bitterness toward either side expressed in the lines of the play, but the story revolves around the life of a little girl whose mother is dead and whose father is an officer in the confederate army. The part of the child is taken by Boots Wooster, who is regarded as the most remarkably stage child in America. She goes through her part with all the cleverness of a grown-up actress and shares the honors with Wm. Farnum. She was recently seen in Indianapolis with Robert Hilliard in “A Fool There Was.” In the third act of the play occurs the great battle scene which is very realistic and very exciting—the best battle scene in any play outside of the famous “Round-up” battle with the Indians.

SOCIETY NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Murphy and Miss Ellen Shine of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mr. John McCoy and Thomas Saunders of Posey township and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Todd and family of Rushville were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown.

* * *

Announcement has been received here of the marriage of Mrs. Lida Freedom Peerman and Thomas Henry Clay Hilligoss Saturday, Dec. seventh, at the Alta Vista hotel at Colorado Springs, Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. Hilligoss will be at home after April 1, 1913, at Capitol Hill, Manitou, Colorado. Mr. Hilligoss formerly lived here and has a large circle of friends in Rush county. His first wife died several months ago.

Eight young women were initiated into the secrets of Tri Kappa Saturday night. The initiation ceremonies were held at the home of Miss Ethel Blackledge in North Main street.

After this the members of the class and the old members of the sorority went to the Social club where a several course turkey dinner was served. Overs were laid for twenty-eight. Two of the patronesses of the local chapter, Mrs. Will M. Sparks and Mrs. Will Jay, were guests.

The new members who were initiated were the Misses Mayme Hiner, Fanny Gregg, Zelma Cox, Hannah Morris, Bertha Walker, Corine Amos and Frances Capp, and Mrs. Walter Hubbard. Miss Norma Smith is also a pledge but was not initiated Saturday night as she is visiting friends in Delphi.

Mrs. Donnan gave an impressive presentation of Macbeth before her study-class in the Graham school building Saturday afternoon. Indicating the delicately artistic parts of the play and giving its stage tradition, the lecture was replete with suggestive touches. Impressive by reason of its humanity was Mrs. Donnan’s conception of Lady Macbeth, a conception which she objectified with remarkable skill; going deep into human nature for her reflections she gave effect to the pathos and significance of the tragedy.

Mrs. Donnan’s introductory talk was full of entertaining comment and review. Prof. Smith’s article in the Atlantic on The New Science was the occasion for some very wise and practical remarks on eugenics. It seems that the eugenists in their enthusiasm for things new and strange are disregarding history, logic, and common sense since human nature cannot be “interpreted in terms of biology.” The season is notable, Mrs. Donnan said, for the surprisingly large number of new books of very definite quality. The collected letters of George Meredith are one of the richest gifts of the press to the current year. An adequate idea of the charm and value of these letters was conveyed in Mrs. Donnan’s review.

ANNOUNCEMENT IS DUE ANY TIME

Reported Congressman Gray Intends to Name Choice For Postoffices Before December 15.

WHEN HE GOES TO CONGRESS

Congressman Finly Gray, of Connersville, who has not yet gone to Washington for congressional duties, is reported to be making a thorough investigation of the postoffice applicants of his district, says the Greenfield Reporter. He will go to Washington about December 15th. Before that time it is thought he will decide who he will appoint for the places. Mr. Gray’s plan of controlling political conditions has been made public, but he will be very fortunate if he is able to select one applicant out of six for a good fat position and still retain the warm friendship and support of all the others. Many an officer “would give a kingdom” for successful dope of that kind.

Congressman Gray’s plan is said to dispose of the whole grist at once, and a public announcement from him would not be a surprise should it come within a few days.

FILE STATEMENTS.

The four candidates on the Prohibition county ticket who neglected to file their campaign expense statements, as provided by the corrupt practices act, until the last moment, finally got in the nick of time without violating the law. None of them spent anything in the campaign. There has been some controversy among lawyers as to whether the law intended that candidates who spent nothing should obey it.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Offutt wish to thank neighbors and friends, and in particular the Rev. W. H. Wylie and Mrs. Mary Dixon for their kindness, and for flowers sent, during the illness and death of their son Ora Offutt.

The Root of Evil

By THOMAS DIXON

Copyright, 1911, by Thomas Dixon

Nan gazed at him in astonishment and broke into a low laugh.
"Of course, you're teasing me. You can't be in earnest in such an absurd dime novel ideal. Give away this enormous fortune!"
The woman placed her hand tenderly in his and nestled close to his side.
"Come, Jim, dear, this is a practical world; you have some common sense

A STITCH IN TIME

Rushville People Should Not Neglect Their Kidneys.

No kidney ailment is unimportant. Don't overlook the slightest backache or urinary irregularity. Nature may be warning you of approaching dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Kidney disease is seldom fatal if treated in time, but neglect may pave the way. Don't neglect a lame or aching back another day. Don't ignore dizzy spells, irregular or discolored urine, headaches, weariness or depression. If you feel you need kidney help begin using the reliable, time-tried remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. For 50 years, Doan's have been found effective. Endorsed by Rushville people.

Mrs. L. B. Leeds, 904 W. Second St., Rushville, Ind., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and they are just fine. I was subject to dizzy and nervous spells and my kidneys were weak, causing backache. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in my family with good results, so I took them. They promptly cured me and I have not been bothered since."

even if you are a man of genius; you're not insane."

"I think not," he answered, soberly. "You cannot make this absurd demand on me," she repeated slowly. "Knowing the awful price I paid for these millions?"

"It's because I know it that I make the demand," he went on, passionately. "We are face to face now, you and I, with all the little subtleties and lies of life torn from our eyes. The fact that the price at which he bought you was high—say a hundred millions—does not change the fact. I refuse to share with the woman I love the price for which she sold herself, whether the sum be a hundred dollars or a hundred millions! I can forgive and have forgiven the wrong you've done me, but I could never share its conscious degradation."

Nan looked at him in despair, her eyes suddenly clouding with tears.

"What do you mean when you say give up these millions?"

"Just what I say," he answered quickly.

"But I couldn't throw them into the street. What would I do with them?"

"You can give them back to the people, the public, from whom they were taken—the people whose labor created their value. That's what an honest man does when he finds he has wronged his neighbor. There's not a stone in your palaces whose cement was not mixed in human tears. The stain of blood is in every scarlet thread of your carpets, rugs and curtains."

"But you are talking like a mad anarchist. His money was made as all great fortunes are made."

"So much the worse for our financiers. Civilization must rest at least on justice or it can't endure."

"But, Jim, no matter what your theories of life or your ambitions, these millions will make them more powerful."

"It's not true. Not a single great man whose words have molded the world was rich. The glitter of your millions once blinded me and I was on the point of surrender, but I've won out. The people in your little world live for money. They do not possess it, they are possessed by it. They are slaves. You will have to come with me into the great free world—if you love me."

"If I love you?" Nan cried, with trembling lips. "Don't speak that way. If you only knew! My love for you has kept me alive through all that I've endured. It's the only thing that's worth the struggle; but I can't think. Your demand is so sudden, so stunning, so terrifying, I don't know what to say."

"We can never be anything to each other," he answered firmly. "On any other terms than the renunciation of all that Birens leaves. I don't care what you do with it, just so you wash your hands of it. You and I must begin life just where we left off when the shadow of his money darkened the world for us both. You must give it up."

"It's hard, dearest," she said with a sob, "for your sake it's hard. I've dreamed so many wonderful things that would come to pass when I made you the master of these millions."

"You must choose between his money and my love; you can't have both."

She gazed at him with a desperate yearning.

"I'll do anything you wish, only love me, dearest," she sobbed. "All I ask is to be loved—loved—loved—and that you never leave me!"

But even as she spoke, her mind was made up. She would reserve at least half her fortune secretly. When they were married she could persuade him to be reasonable.

"All right, then, it's settled, but it must be everything with me or nothing. I won't shake hands with my friend and make love to his wife. You must cease to be his wife now."

"But how—what do you mean?" she asked, white with sudden fear.

"Leave your husband, your palaces, your millions and join me tomorrow night on the limited for New York. Bring only a change of clothes in a single trunk and a hand bag. My money must be sufficient. I'll wire for passage on an outgoing steamer. We'll spend two years in Europe and return to America when we please. Are you ready?"

To be continued.

Big Liner Mauretania Reported In Trouble.

OMINOUS RUMOR UNVERIFIED

Word Received in London, Paris and New York Tells of Serious Accident Which Has Befallen Giant Cunarder, but All Efforts to Confirm the Same or Get in Wireless Touch With the Vessel Have Failed.

London, Dec. 9.—It is impossible to obtain any confirmation of the rumor about the Mauretania. The Paris office also is without further information beyond the rumor. The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail sends the rumor, but no further information. The rumor may have grown out of a dispatch from Queenstown stating that some of the passengers, who were bound to America aboard a train from Dublin to Queenstown, which was in a collision near Cork station on the Southern & Western railway, received severe shocks and bruises. They afterward embarked on the Mauretania and proceeded to New York.

New York, Dec. 9.—At the Sun office a cablegram has been received saying that the Mauretania of the Cunard line had met with a mishap. The cablegram was sent from Paris and contained no details as to the nature of the accident.

Charles P. Sumner, New York agent for the Cunard Steamship company, said that he had heard of no such accident and that he was sure that he would have been the first to have heard from the foreign offices of the line if there had been any. He had received a cablegram saying that the Mauretania left Queenstown at noon Sunday and that all were safe aboard.

Robert S. Walker, another official of the line, also doubted the truth of the report. He had a cable that the Mauretania had left Liverpool in safety on Saturday. He said that she had about 1,200 passengers aboard. There were, as he remembers the cable telling of her departure, about 300 first-cabin passengers and 250 in the second.

The Mauretania has on board an unusually large number of American tourists coming home for the Christmas holidays. Her cabins are full. Mme. Tetravini, the prima donna, embarked on the big ship for a tour of the United States. Others aboard are George Duveen of Duveen Brothers, New York; G. D. Foster of Chicago; Sir Redmond Roblin, prime minister of Manitoba; Countess Camilla Hoyos Short, who recently married Charles W. Short of Cincinnati; Major Creighton Webb; W. E. Mandelick, secretary of the Underground Electric Railways company of London, and Miss Greta Hostetter of Allegheny.

The Word From Paris.

Paris, Dec. 9.—It is rumored here that the liner Mauretania has met with a serious accident.

PEACE CONFERENCE

Turkey Able to Demand Better Terms Than at First Expected.

Vienna, Dec. 9.—The Austria-Servia imbroglio will now lie dormant until the peace conference brings forth the facts.

In regard to the peace negotiations at London it may be said at once that the Turks will be able to demand better terms than seemed likely only quite recently. They will certainly refuse to surrender Adrianople even if it falls, nor will the freedom of the Dardanelles be discussed, for the Turks still own both shores. Turkey, however, will not make impossible demands, but on the other hand will not listen to the Balkan states if they put forward arrogant claims. Turkey has consented to compromise and discuss terms when she is at last in a strong position from a military point of view. If the fighting were recommenced today she would be certain of success. Her forces and defenses are consolidated and are being strengthened daily, while her enemies' good fortune is on the ebb.

"BETTER ROADS" THE BATTLE CRY

Important Movement to Be Pushed This Week.

NEW LEGISLATION IS SOUGHT

One of the Most Important Acts of the Indiana Better Roads Convention to Be Held at Indianapolis Will Be the Adoption of a Legislative Program Having For Its Object Revision of Indiana's System of Road Making.

Indianapolis, Dec. 9.—The general committee on arrangements for the Indiana Better Roads convention, which convenes Wednesday at the German House, has completed arrangements for the general meetings and the placing of the exhibits and announced the official program. Preparations were made for caring for approximately 2,000 delegates and visitors, as it is expected that at least that number will be in attendance.

The general committee named H. H. Rice chairman of a legislative committee, which will be composed of representatives from the various organizations participating in the convention. It will be the duty of this committee to work for legislation advocated in resolutions adopted by the convention. Clarence A. Kenyon, president of the convention, will present a draft of proposed legislation to the convention and this draft, if adopted, with amendments, will be handled by the legislative committee.

Through Mr. Kenyon, who also is president of the Indiana Good Roads association, the annual meeting of the Indiana Trustees' association will be held here and the majority of the members of this association probably will attend the roads meeting.

THE PAROLE SYSTEM

Its Advantages Pointed Out by State Charities Board.

Indianapolis, Dec. 9.—Of the 6,945 prisoners of the state prison, Indiana reformatory and woman's prison granted conditional releases since the passage of the indeterminate sentence and parole laws in 1897, 4,900 completed the parole period to the satisfaction of those in charge and were released from supervision. An additional 449 were discharged because the maximum limit of their sentences was reached during the parole period, and 120 have died.

At the close of the fiscal year Sept. 30, 1912, 573 were under supervision and reporting to the authorities. These various classes make a total of 5,142. The remaining 1,803 are the failures, those who are known to have broken faith. They constitute 25.9 per cent of the whole number paroled. Up to Sept. 30, 1,024 delinquents had been returned to the institutions and 779 were still at large.

"Sooner or later the terms of the prisoners who have been paroled would have expired and they would have left the institutions free men and women, but going out as they did under the parole law they remained under the control of the state until they gave satisfactory proof of their reformation and their ability to maintain themselves," says Amos W. Butler, secretary of the board of state charities, in a bulletin which will be made a part of his annual report soon to be issued. "By paroling them and exercising over them such supervision as was necessary until they became rehabilitated, the state saved to useful citizenship many who might have continued in criminal ways and become a menace to the public welfare."

The state reformatory, up to the close of the fiscal year, had paroled 4,171 young men and its unsatisfactory cases numbered 1,087 or 26 per cent. Of the 2,580 men paroled from the state prison, 217, or 25.5 per cent proved delinquent. The woman's prison paroled 194 women, of whom 25 proved delinquent.

"The records show that the parole system is as great a success financially as otherwise," reads the report. "The prisoners during the time they were under supervision, never less than a year, reported earnings for themselves amounting to $1,886,995.53 and expenses amounting to $1,568,466.66, these reports being certified by their employers. These ex-prisoners, therefore, not only were self-sustaining, but had on hand or due them when they ceased reporting a total of $318,528.87. Had they remained in prison their maintenance for one year would have cost the state at the average per capita expense, the additional sum of $1,152,555.80."

Victim of His Own Gun.
Columbus, Ind., Dec. 9.—Henry Wiley, sixty-eight years old, a wealthy farmer of Rock Creek township, was accidentally killed while hunting rabbits near his home. The body was found by the dead man's stepson several hours after death. A load of shot had entered the man's left side three inches below the apex of the heart.

New Governor Picks Home.
Indianapolis, Dec. 9.—The new governor's mansion is to be at 2102 North Delaware street, Governor Elect Ralston having closed a lease on the property at that number. Mr. Ralston is to take possession of the property about the middle of January.

"HOW great a matter a little fire kindleth!"

When the Balkan states went after the "terrible Turk" the average wisecracker predicted that the "terrible" one would wipe them out as he had previously drubbed Greece. Also the wisecracker, who bears much the same relation to martial matters as the campaign prophet and know-it-all does to politics, thought the Balkan conflagration would be local and could not by any possibility spread to other sections of Europe. But when the war wind blows the flames sometimes get out of the control of the diplomatic fire departments, and the first thing any one knows a whole continent is in flames.

Of course all this talk of a general European conflict may be in the nature of revenge on the part of the war correspondents. The treatment of these gentlemen has been shameful. Ingratitude and outrages are but mild terms when applied to it. Here they had been boosting in season and out of season for a Balkan war, and when it came they were barred from the front by the allies, and when one English scribe got too near on the Moslem side the Turks fired a volley at him.

What way is that to treat a war correspondent? Had it not been for the inaccuracy of Turkish marksmanship, the same thing that has preserved the Bulgars, that correspondent might now be writing dispatches from a hotter place than Turkey. As it was, only his dignity was wounded, though he had the scare of his life and henceforth will possess a keener appreciation of what war really means. When a man is shot at by a footpad it gives him a new experience, and when he is shot at by a regiment the sensation is raised to the nth power.

Correspondents Getting Even.

After such indignities who can blame the war correspondents for trying to get even? If they could not go to the front in the Balkans after all they had done to bring on the row as journeymen prophets, then they would begin predicting a general European war. If they could not write thrilling accounts of battles from fifty miles in the rear they could at least put over some thrillers in the shape of future battles between the triple alliance and the triple entente. By the way, do not pronounce the word like it looks. Call it ontonty and say it as if you had a hot potato in your mouth. If this unpleasantness does nothing else it is going to teach some of us how to pronounce. Since it started there has been more of a slaughter of Turkish pronunciations than of Turkish soldiers. The whole world has been at it. Ontonty is not a Turkish word.

but it has a heathenish sound and should be handled with the same care that a hen negotiates with a large and lively bug.

There is already a correspondents' war between the triple alliance and the triple entente. Austria and Russia are mobilizing troops, and the other members of the two "triples" are mobilizing adjectives. The diplomats are charging furiously in all the chancelleries of Europe. The German kaiser's mustaches have a fiercer upward turn, and French conversations are exercising arms, shoulders and eyebrows as they have not been exercised since the taking of Alsace and Lorraine.

A Real Armageddon.

It should be mentioned at this point that the triple alliance consists of Germany, Austria and Italy, while the triple entente is made up of England, France and Russia. In a general mix-up Turkey would side with the alliance, and the Balkan states with the entente. England and Germany would be the two chief combatants. That would be some war, believe me, and would make all previous conflicts resemble games of pingpong.

Germany has the greatest army on the planet and England the greatest navy. About the only nations in Europe not involved would be Spain, Portugal, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland and the Scandinavian states, and possibly some of them might be drawn in, at least as fighting territory. This would be an Armageddon that would make our late presidential election look like a town caucus.

All the nations say they do not want to fight, yet they are feverishly at work oiling up their war machines. "We don't want to fight, but, by jingo, if we do!"

Premier Asquith of England and Premier Poincare of France are continually assuring us that there will be no trouble and that they have got all the powers to agree on a program, but they are reckoning without the war correspondents. While the premiers are giving out pacific statements on one side of Europe the correspondents are cabling of blood and thunder on the other.

Austria and Serbia are by the ears, and Russia is ready to back Serbia, while the Crown Prince Franz Ferdinand of Austria goes to see the German war lord and has assurances of help from that quarter. This Austrian heir apparent, by the way, appears to head the active war party in Austria-Hungary. The aged Emperor Franz Joseph has seen a few wars in his day and does not thirst for more, but the son yearns for martial glory. Of course if Germany got into the game France and England would be compelled

PROTESTANTISM HAS NEW CREED

Federal Council of Churches Takes Broad Step.

PROTECTION OF THE FAMILY

This Particularly Is Emphasized by the Declaration For a Single Standard of Purity and the Abolition of Child Labor, While Much Stress Is Laid Upon the Demand For Equal Rights and Complete Justice For All Men.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America is making a new creed and cheers that greeted its first reading insure its adoption. It contrasts greatly with the old style declarations of faith in which immersion and dancing have prominent parts.

The new declaration of faith by the thirty-two Protestant denominations contains the following among other declarations: "The churches must stand for equal rights and complete justice for all men in all stations of life."

For protection of the family by the single standard of purity; with uniform divorce laws, proper regulations of marriage and proper housing.

For abolition of child labor.

For abatement and prevention of poverty.

For protection of the worker from dangerous machinery, occupational diseases and mortality.

For the most equitable division of the product of industry that can ultimately be devised.

SOCIAL CONSERVATION

Settlement Worker Makes a Plea For Better Conditions.

New York, Dec. 9.—Miss Maude Miner, formerly probation officer in the women's night court, and now secretary of the New York Probation association, said in a lecture delivered to the class in social Christianity of the West Side Y. M. C. A., that the tenement house conditions now being described to the state factory investigating committee were mainly responsible for the growth of the social evil in the large cities. She said:

"I have been in tenement houses in the Italian sections of the city recently and I have seen girls of six, seven or eight years working far into the night making artificial flowers. When those girls become seventeen or eighteen years old they are the ones who become incorrigible. The struggle to keep above the poverty line is hard for them, and it is no wonder that many of these girls succumb to the temptations dangled before them by procurers and procuresses."

"I have seen eight people living in two rooms, five living in one room. When people are crowded like that it is impossible for them to observe the decencies of life."

Referring to the treatment of unfortunates, she said: "Little is being done to help fallen women; the present methods of the night court are unsatisfactory. The constructive work should be done with the younger girls; it is possible to help the girls who have been living the life only a short time."

"Probation is the only process of dealing with them. It means something to these girls to have somebody interested in them; they want the human help of someone who does not regard them as bad all through."

Miss Miner spoke of the work being done by the Waverley House, with which she is connected. The house is helping the department of justice in its work against white slavery.

"When we know the work the department is doing, we know that the stories of white slavery are not yellow journalism. There are many men and women who make a business of trafficking in these women. Some of them do it under promise of marriage, some through want advertisements, some by employment bureaus and some by force."

DECLARED IT MURDER

Jury Convicts Companion of Slain Hunter on Circumstantial Evidence.

Baldwin, Mich., Dec. 9.—The jury in the case of Oscar M. Auerbach, on trial here charged with the murder of Harry W. Fisher, a Chicago millionaire, rendered a verdict convicting the defendant, finding him guilty of murder in the first degree.

Auerbach was convicted solely on circumstantial evidence. He and Fisher left the Fisher home one morning in September to go hunting. In a short time Auerbach returned to the Fisher home and said that Fisher had accidentally shot himself. Auerbach was subsequently arrested and has since been confined in jail here.

Caught by Interurban Car.

Richmond, Ind., Dec. 9.—Josepha Pons, twenty-nine years old, of New Paris, O., was struck and killed by an interurban car here. Pons attempted to cross the street in front of the car.

Jury Convicts Phillips.

Spencer, Ind., Dec. 5.—Charles Phillips, tried for killing his stepfather, John Berry, must serve from two to fourteen years in prison, according to the verdict of the jury.

Packages Not Fully Prepaid Will Be

Held for Postage—Address

Them Plainly.

Postmaster-General Hitchcock says that by observing a few of the simple rules of the postal service the public will do much to facilitate the handling of the holiday mail and insuring the safe and delivery with but little extra cost. These rules follow:

1. All mail matter should be fully prepaid. Packages not fully prepaid will be held for postage of at least one dollar. Packages should be fully and plainly addressed, including street and number, or number of rural route, in order that there may be no delay in handling and delivering them.

2. The sender's name and address should be placed in the upper left-hand corner of the envelope or wrapper, to insure return of mail if not delivered.

3. All mail matter should be securely packed and wrapped, so as to bear transportation without breaking. Matter other than that of the first class must be so wrapped that the contents of the package may be examined easily by postal officials.

When not so wrapped the matter will be handled with postage at the full rate. Packages should be wrapped in sturdy material, such as heavy paper, cardboard, or other suitable material.

4. Packages of third and fourth class matter may bear, in addition to the regular postage, a written designation, "Registered," "Insured," or "Valuable," which will insure the matter against loss or damage. The cost of insurance is 50 cents per $100 of value.

5. Packages should be prepared and addressed, as indicated livery" must be placed directly under but not on the stamps.

9. Imitations of postage stamps may not be placed on either side of mail matter. Where such imitations of stamps are used, the matter will be returned to the sender, if known, or, if unknown, to the division of the dead letters. However, adhesive stickers, labels or seals, such as the "Red Cross seals," which do not resemble postage stamps in form or design and do not bear numerals, may be affixed to the reverse side of domestic mail matter.

10. Registry stamps are not valid for the payment of postage, but only to cover the fee on registered matter.

When used to prepay ordinary postage the matter to which the registry stamps are affixed will be held for postage.

The postmaster-general urges that the patrons of the mails use more care in the preparation of parcels for mailing during the approaching holiday season and to inform themselves as to the requirements of the postal service. If the help for postage, mis-directed or otherwise addressed understandable directions should be sent with the matter, and the sender's cards at least twenty-one thousand and valuable presents, would have been restored, promptly to the owners, who would have been advised of the reasons for the disappointment of their friends in not receiving their gifts last Christmas.

SIXTEEN GAMES ON SCHEDULE

Local High School Basketball Teams

Will Meet Some of Best Teams in State.

FIRST GAME FRIDAY NIGHT

Open Season Here With Contest With

Cambridge City Saturday Night

—Prospects Encouraging.

The local high school team will open the basketball season Friday night with the game at Franklin. Franklin has one of the best teams in the state and Rushville has the best hopes of victory but does expect to hold them to a low score. The local team has brighter prospects this year than last. The team is believed to be stronger on the guard position than in many years. The revised schedule gives the locals sixteen games and they are with the best teams in the Sixth district.

Probably one of the hardest games will be with Shelbyville. Shelbyville took two games from Rushville last year and with practically the same team this year the locals will have a hard time winning. But the team has been showing up well in practice and hopes to hold Shelbyville to a low score. The team will be equipped with new uniforms this week. The first home game will be played here next Saturday night with Cambridge City. Little is known of the Cambridge City team but a fast contest is expected.

Prof. Smelser has also arranged an inter-class schedule and the class games will tend to add interest to the sport. The inter-class schedule will open in a few days. The complete schedule for the team is as follows: Dec. 13, Rushville vs. Franklin at Franklin. Dec. 14, Cambridge City vs. Rushville at Rushville. Dec. 20, Rushville vs. Shelbyville at Shelbyville. Dec. 21, Carthage vs. Rushville at Carthage. Jan. 3, Rushville vs. Richmond at Richmond. Jan. 10, Shelbyville vs. Rushville at Shelbyville. Jan. 17, Rushville vs. Connersville at Connersville. Jan. 24, Newcastle vs. Rushville at Newcastle. Jan. 31, Rushville vs. Newcastle at Newcastle.

BURDEN ADDED TO LOCAL FORCE

office is figuring on just how much extra work it is going to make in this office. It is probable that there will be no occasion for extra help, although this is very uncertain. It can not be definitely settled until the parcels post is in operation and the extent of its use is known.

In addition to the extra weight it will probably make for the carriers, the department at Washington has added another burden to the post-office force. For the first month the new system is in force the carriers, both city and rural, must count, weigh and make notation of the amount of postage used on every article which is sent by parcels post. The rural mail carriers counted and weighed their mail during the months of October and November, but the task which faces them at present is a far greater one.

The following table shows the cost by parcels post. Packages sent by parcels post must have special stamps. Packages will not be carried by the parcels post rate with a regular stamp. People who contemplate taking advantage of parcels post should clip this table of postage rate and save it for reference:

	1st lb.	Each add'l lb.	11 lb.
Rural route and city delivery	05	01	15

CORRECTED PROBLEM.

An error was made in stating the geometry problem in the high school "Forum" Saturday. It should have read:

"The sum of the squares of the four sides of any quadrilateral is equal to the sum of the squares of the diagonals increased by four times the square of the line joining the middle points of the diagonals."
